I thought long and hard all weekend about disbanding the Bro Golf Club. Not actually sure if I could ever pick up a golf club again.

But, upon serious soul searching, I realized that it's these trial and tribulations that make life so rich. What doesn't kill you, makes you stronger. So I am embracing the moment. I know that many thought I wouldn't post the video (and therefore stole the video memory card). But G-Man returned it to me over the weekend and at the end of this e-mail you can enjoy it to your heart's content.

For those of you who weren't there. Friday was another perfect day for golf at Los Verdes. A nice tight field teed off at 10:05 a.m. At the turn, D. Mill (who shot a 38 on the front), Kid, G-Man, Dalis, and myself (with a career 42 on the front) were all in contention. D. Mill faded quickly on the back. Dalis, Kid and G-Man also faltered toward the end, but Dalis got into the clubhouse with the lead (at net 72).

After a solid start to the back nine, my lug nuts started loosening and I stumbled home. Following a hooking drive on 18th and a shot into the trees, I punched out and pitched to around 40 feet. After some quick scorecard calculations, it was determined that I needed to two putt for my first every victory. I left the first putt 8 feet short and missed the second. After tapping in for solid seven, it was on to the first tee for a playoff.

Billy O caddied for Dalis and D. Miller reluctantly carried my bag. Ensalada and I have played in more BGC tournaments without getting a victory than any other members. Finally, one of us would get the monkey off our backs. No strokes were given on the opening Par 5 hole (the same one that I described in the Nate vs. G-Man e-mail).

Jeff his a nice fairway wood right down the middle and hit a solid second shot and had about 60 feet to the green.. I popped up my drive, then hit a 5 wood to the fairway bunker and had around 200 left.

There is no need to describe what happened next. The video tells it all. In one moment, Dalis not only captured his first title, but also relinquished the honor of having the most embarrassing moment in BGC history.

Congratulations to Ensalada on his first victory. Thanks also to the Kid for another great Oakley Pro-Am. And thanks most of all to Big Al. The prizes (Oakley sunglasses, Oakly gear, Titliest drivers and wedges, etc. etc. were BY FAR the best in BGC history.). Al came through big time and if you missed this event, you missed out on a booty bonanza.

Okay, here's the video: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hv1duQGELlw>

p.s. One more "Whiffshaw" from C.B. and I may wrap a 4-iron around his head. Although I might whiff trying to hit him.
